

Attic Inscriptions: Education

Colouring Activity

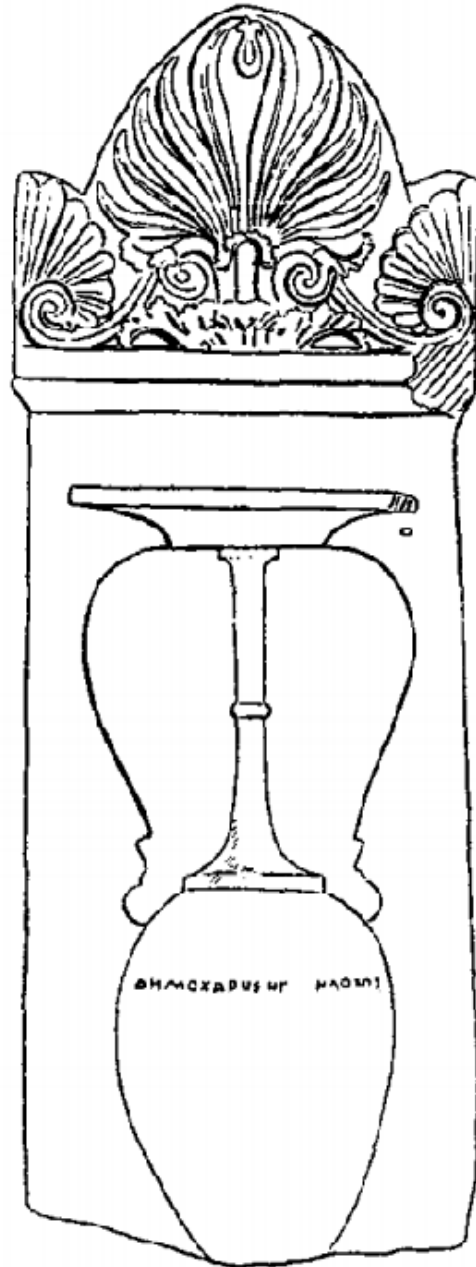

1. This is a drawing of the ancient gravestone for the two people known as Demochares and Hegelochos.

It was found in a cemetery in Greece but is now in a museum in Leeds in England.

Once it would have been painted and decorated.

But the paint has faded away over time: the painting has disappeared.

If you colour it in it might help us understand how it would have looked in ancient times. You can make the decoration reappear.

2. This is another gravestone. It has the name 'Kollion' at the top.

It may have originally depicted a man and a baby.

The baby reaches up to the man.

Originally the gravestone would have been painted.

The people would have been shown with colourful clothes.

The borders would have been decorated too.

But the paint has faded away over time: the painting has disappeared.

If you colour it in it might help us understand how it would have looked in ancient times. You can make the decoration reappear!

